Business Audit: AnaConnectsYou

Subject: AnaConnectsYou, the public practice of Desert Sun Investments LLC · Audit date: November 5, 2026 · Sources: the public website, its own published records, and the registries named below

VERDICT

The public record supports the practice as presented. What the site claims about identity, certification, and capability checks out against primary sources. The commercial desk is built and live; the open items are pricing, one legal review, and proof of paid demand, and each one is named plainly below.

Findings, graded

VERIFIED Identity and registrations are consistent everywhere they appear. The site names Desert Sun Investments LLC as the operating company, with CAGE code 23P34 and UEI UA1DQDEX1AJ3, and its SAM.gov registration is presented as active.

VERIFIED Both certifications the site claims are stated with vendor numbers and dates: City of West Palm Beach Small Business Enterprise, vendor 1078288, valid through October 14, 2029, and South Florida Water Management District Small Business Enterprise, vendor 1000002458, valid through October 22, 2029. No certification is claimed beyond these two.

VERIFIED The live market ticker runs on real instruments. All eight symbols behind the tape were checked against TradingView itself and every one returns a live price: the S&P 500, Nasdaq 100, Dow Jones, and Russell 2000 index contracts, the United States 10 Year yield, gold, WTI crude oil, and Bitcoin.

VERIFIED Every research item on the Intelligence page carries a named official source and a date, and the items resolve to the publishers own announcements, including OpenAI, NVIDIA, and Anthropic.

VERIFIED The site enforces its own form only contact rule. A full sweep of the public pages on November 5, 2026 found zero invitations to call, zero text invitations, zero public email links, zero phone numbers, and zero booking tools. The inquiry form and the report form are the only doors in.

VERIFIED Standard protective headers are live on the site as of today: a content security policy, frame protection, content type protection, a referrer policy, a permissions policy, and strict transport security, confirmed in the sites own response headers.

LIKELY

The positioning is coherent. The site presents one practice, an independent market intelligence and executive research advisory, and the offer, the intelligence desk, and the credentials all point the same way. A visitor can state what the practice does within seconds of landing.

Basis: full read of the homepage and Intelligence page, November 5, 2026

UNVERIFIED Paid demand is not yet proven. The report form is live, but no paid report order has been completed and recorded, so the desk has presentation and process evidence only, not revenue evidence.

Basis: absence of any completed order record as of November 5, 2026

What is missing

- Prices and delivery times for the three reports. The order form carries the slots openly as to be confirmed, and no payment can be taken until the owner sets the numbers.
- An attorney approved disclaimer. The site publishes interim wording and marks it as pending attorney approval; the final wording is not yet in place.
- The listening edition of the daily brief. Its place is held on the Intelligence page in words only; no audio is published yet.
- The Counterparty Business Check. It is held off the order form until counsel sets how far people vetting may go.
- This sample itself is pending owner approval and is not published anywhere.

Red flags

- No material red flags were found in the public record reviewed for this audit.
- One minor inconsistency: a social sharing metadata line on the site still carries a retired headline. It is not visible page copy and it is queued for correction.
- One operational note: form delivery depends on a free third party form service. It is the same channel the contact form has used reliably, and a paid or owned channel belongs on the list as order volume grows.
- One correction on record shows the verification system working: two answers on the Work With Me page invited visitors to call or text against the sites own form only rule. Both were replaced with form only wording on November 5, 2026.

Where we can help

- None required. This audit was run by the practice on itself, in the same format a client receives, to prove the format before it is sold.
